Sudoku

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Brillion Works redevelopment is in limbo

By David Nordby
The Brillion News

BRILLION – Brillion leaders discussed during Monday night’s Committee of the Whole meeting where things sit between the city and the Brillion Works (BW) group on redevelopment of the former Brillion Iron Works site.

Mayor Mike Smith and City Council members expressed apprehension over putting more of the city’s money into the Tax Incremental District (TID) #5 until the redevelopment plans come into clearer focus.

The Brillion Iron Works company closed in 2016. It was revealed in late 2017 that Ariens Company CEO Dan Ariens was a potential buyer of the site. By 2019, the newly-formed Brillion Works team spearheaded by Ariens to redevelop the site, had an agreement in place with the city. The early years of redevelopment consisted mostly of work with the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to clean the hazardous site, which was when TID #5 was created.

In the 2019 agreement, the city’s maximum amount of borrowing for TID #5 was $2 million. During public meetings last year, Smith said that he believes the city has already satisfied the $2 million input thanks to the grants the city received.

“This is through no fault of anybody at this table, and I’m not even blaming the developer either. I feel like, again, approaching this the way we did has put us way behind where other communities would have been had they taken the responsibilities after approaching us through the EPA and brownfield sites ...

BRILLION – The longest discussion that took place during Monday night’s Committee of the Whole and City Council meetings was about equipment the Department of Public Works (DPW) uses.

The discussion, started by the Committee of the Whole’s need to recommend a lease for John Deere equipment for 2025-26 to City Council, focused on the existing equipment the DPW uses for snowplowing, salting the roads, leaf pickup, and tree and brush pickup.

“We talked about this a year ago that we’ve got three major pieces of equipment already with only two operators,” Alderperson Dan Farrell said.

Farrell said he thought that after last year when it was discussed, it would be a possibility to sell equipment that is no longer used.

that I would say we should get rid of,” DPW Supervisor Andrew Maertz said.

Maertz listed off the various pieces of equipment the city owns, in addition to the lease, and how they all do the individual tasks.

Farrell said the DPW needs a better plan to use the equipment that it already has.

The conversation circled back and forth between how many workers there are and how many pieces of equipment are used.

Maertz said part-time workers have not been needed yet this year.

“I disagree with that because a big snow event ...
